How to choose

Six things decide how a floor looks, feels and lasts. We are happy to walk through them with you in person or on site.

Wear layer

The clear top layer that takes the traffic, measured in mil. 12 mil suits bedrooms and rentals, 20 to 22 mil busy family homes, 30 mil the heaviest wear.

Attached pad

A foam pad bonded to the back of each plank softens footsteps and sound, and reduces the need for a separate underlayment.

Sound rating

IIC and STC measure impact and airborne sound. Higher is quieter, which matters in condos with sound rules.

Thickness

Thicker SPC planks feel more solid underfoot and bridge small dips in the subfloor better. Our SPC runs from 4.5 mm to 8 mm.

Plank size

Longer, wider planks (60 × 9 in) show fewer joints and suit open-plan rooms. 48 × 7 in is the classic size and fits any room.

Floor type

SPC is a rigid, waterproof core for the whole home. Glue-down vinyl is thin, for commercial spaces and low clearances. Engineered wood is real oak.

Roman

Our thickest SPC: long, wide 60-inch planks, a 30 mil wear layer and a 2mm attached pad for a solid, quiet floor.
